GAS BOOSTS LAID ON SQUEEZE DEALS WITH STANDARD OIL

"Cotpus" Absorbed Profits of Company. It Controlled, While Independents, Buying Oil in Open Market, Were Making Good Money.

Queens Borough Company Refused to Make Contract With Oil Trust and Cleared 7 1-2 Per Cent. on Gas at $1.15 a Thousand.

The Queens Borough Gas and Electric Company makes more than 7 1-2 per cent. on a gas rate of $1.15 a thousand cubic feet.

The New York and Queens Gas Company, a Consolidated subsidiary, insists it is losing money hand over fist at $1.25 a thousand.

The Bronx Gas and Electric Company swears it is being driven into bankruptcy as $1.50 a thousand.

Other brothers and sisters of the two just named companies in the Consolidated Gas family are preparing to sell the Public Service Commission the same story in rate increase cases soon to be started.

The New York and Queens Gas Company has submitted into evidence a table which alleges it needs more than $2 a thousand to break even.

Why does the Queens Borough Gas and Electric Company apparently stand alone in the metropolitan territory?

The answer is OIL. While the Consolidated Gas and its subsidiaries were using gas oil, for which they paid their predominating parent concern—the Standard Oil Company—at the rate of 12 1/2 cents a gallon, the Queens Borough Company was purchasing this product in the open market at an average of about 7 cents a gallon.

A small quantity was bought at the peak price of 10 1/2 cents a gallon, but the following table shows what the net selling price was of the concern, Carlton Mack, paid during 1921 in cents per gallon and what the Consolidated and its children have paid for the same period.

FIGURES TELL THE STORY OF HIGH PRICED GAS.

	Queens Borough, Consolidated	Consolidated
January	6 1/2	12 1/2
February	6 1/2	12 1/2
March	6 1/2	12 1/2
April	6 1/2	12 1/2
May	6 1/2	12 1/2
June	6 1/2	12 1/2
July	6 1/2	12 1/2
August	6 1/2	12 1/2

Last year, for the full year, the Queens Borough paid only 6 1/2 cents a gallon while the Consolidated paid 7 1/2 cents.

Here, in this object lesson from the Metropolitan territory, rises the "smell of Standard Oil" again.

Mr. Mack, when approached by the Standard Oil last year with the 12 1/2

TOOK MAN TO HOSPITAL, WOULDN'T TELL ABOUT HIM

Refused to Explain How Fracture of the Skull Was Caused.

Two men drove to the Harlem Hospital in a taxi last night with Frank L. Lerner, forty years old, a sign painter, of No. 343 East 124th Street. Lerner's skull was fractured. After carrying him to the accident where the men went away. They did not tell how Lerner received the injury.

"DEAD SURE THING," POLICE SAY, LED TO $100,000 FORGERY

Clerk's "Get Rich Quick" Idea Said to Have Started From Stock Tip.

NO WOMAN IS INVOLVED

Olson Pleads Guilty and Says the Money Will Be Found in Deposit Box.

A "dead sure thing" coming in the form of a "tip" from a stock broker is what started Arthur E. Olson, a 45-year-old clerk in the employ of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, on an alleged "get rich quick" plan which has landed him in jail on a charge of forgery. The amount is set at $100,000.

The police declared today that Olson, who is twenty-six years old and has two children, had told them a story in which he had expected to get so much money from this "sure thing" that he could quickly and easily cover up the extended peculations in the Metropolitan's accounts and have enough left over on which to retire.

When arraigned in the Centre Street Court today the prisoner pleaded guilty to the specific charge of forging an $18,000 check payable to C. Frederick Jackson and was held in $20,000 bail for the Grand Jury by Magistrate Corrigan. Olson was unable to furnish bail and was sent to the Tombs.

The young man was met in the court room by his father, and broke into tears as the parent talked earnestly with him. When the proceedings actually got under way, however, Olson braced up and told his story to the court.

Magistrate Corrigan at first intended to set bail at $10,000, but counsel for the company declared that only $25,000 of the $100,000 involved had been recovered. Bail was then set at $20,000. During argument on the bail, when the company declared its inability to trace the $35,000 still missing, Olson said:

"My wife is on her way here from the country with the keys to my safe deposit box. The company already has my signature to an order giving them full possession of the contents of the box. Then it will be found that the $100,000 is intact."

Detective Dumphrey of Police Headquarters and Pinkerton Detective Wagner arrested Olson yesterday at Stamford, N. Y., just as the clerk was about to take a party of fellow vacationists on a ride in the touring car he had bought before leaving on his vacation.

Olson took the opportunity presented by the detectives to depart quietly, and telling his wife he would be back as soon as he could check up the numbers on his automobile, drove off under arrest. That was the last his wife heard of him until notified of his detention in Police Headquarters here.

Olson, who has been in the Metropolitan's employ for seven years, insists there is no woman in the case and that there was no question of the lure of Broadway. The police say they are inclined to believe him. Olson in the course of a week handled millions of dollars in cash and checks a his desk, it was said. He lives at No. 241 Eighth Street, Brooklyn.

The discrepancy in Olson's accounts was not discovered until several days after the prisoner had left on his vacation. The first intimation was of only a minor nature, but officials of the company decided to investigate and soon learned the extent of Olson's dealing. He had taken advantage of the company routine whereby different officers on different days issue warrants for loans requisitioned by clients.

It was in this way that Olson made out a duplicate warrant in Mr. Johnson's name on July 26, took it to a bank, deposited it in Mr. Johnson's name and then drew against it, redepositing the checks in ten savings banks using different names.

Since July 26 Olson has repeated the duplicate warrant transaction twice, it is charged, once with $27,000 and again with $45,000.

ENTERS BY ROOF AND GRABS 2 MEN LOOTING A HOUSE

Policeman Reidy Holds Up Pair Jimmying Doctor's Silver Chest.

BOTH OUT ON PAROLE.

One Once Shot at "Linkie" Mitchell in Sequel to "Tanner" Smith Murder.

Thomas Reidy is a cop of tact, resource, judgment and nerve. Single-handed he nabbed two burglars at 3 o'clock this morning while they were jimmying a chest of silver in the dining room of Dr. I. W. Drummond's residence at No. 436 West 23d Street.

A woman told him that burglars had been in her backyard and had gone into that of Dr. Drummond, adjoining. The Drummond family is away for the summer.

Reidy examined the windows and doors, found an attempt to jimmy them had been unsuccessful, and concluded the burglars had gone to the roof. He aroused the tenants of a house several numbers away, got to the roof, removed his brooms and crossed several roofs to that of the doctor, where he found the scuttles open.

Gun in hand he descended floor by floor, finding on each floor evidences of the burglars' visit, and then reached the dining room, where he saw the men at work. He fired a shot and turned on the electric light.

The two men at the silver chest jumped to their feet and threw up their hands. A large revolver and a stiletto lay on the chest.

Reidy backed his men into the doctor's office, keeping them covered, switched on the light and telephoned to the West 20th Street station, bringing to his aid Sergeant Dwyer and Patrolman Duffy.

The latter found it impossible to get in through any of the doors, so strongly had the house been sealed, and he had to go over the roof. The policemen had to take their prisoners out of the house by the same route.

Dr. Drummond was summoned from his Jersey summer home and denied ownership of the weapons found on the silver chest. He was warm in his commendation of Reidy.

The burglars were identified as Edward Shore, eighteen, No. 142 Tenth Avenue, and John Slattery, eighteen, No. 457 West 17th Street, both out on parole. Shore is a brother of "Rubber" Shore, one of the men accused of the murder of "Tanner" Smith in the latter's clubroom at Eighth Avenue and 15th Street.

After the murder, "Rubber" Shore married and went to Hoboken for his honeymoon. He remained under cover for several days, and the first night he put his head out of doors he was shot and killed.

Edward Shore, who was arrested this morning, spent several days practicing revolver shooting, then went to Hoboken and took five shots at "Linkie" Mitchell, who was supposed to be one of the gangsters who evened up the "Tanner" Smith murder. He failed to hit "Linkie."

ICE CREAM AND CHEESE FATAL TO LITTLE BOY.

Doctor in Case Believes the Combination Caused Laid Death.

Lyle Russell, ten years old, No. 404 East 85th Street died at three o'clock this morning.

Dr. P. T. Levenson, who examined the boy, reported that it was his belief that the boy was poisoned by a combination of ice cream and cheese. Two weeks ago, after returning from an excursion Lyle and his brother ate ice cream and cheese, and both were ill on the following day.

The elder boy recovered but Lyle had been subjected to nausea, vomiting and diarrhea. On Tuesday he was sent to bed. When the doctor reached the house at nine o'clock last night, he was delirious and had a very slight pulse. The doctor said that the case was hopeless. An autopsy will be necessary to determine the real cause of death.

ACCUSES BOBBED HAIR GIRL, PRETTY AND 17, OF BEING BURGLAR WHO HAD LOOTED HER HOME

Mrs. Dukes Causes Arrest of Fair Stranger She Met on Arverne Beach.

CONFESSES, SAY POLICE.

Prisoner Suspected of Having Committed a Series of Similar Deeds.

Mrs. Ethel Kaplan, seventeen, whose hair is bobbed, whose eyes are blue and who says she is living apart from her husband, was held in $2,500 bail for the Grand Jury today by Magistrate Ryttenberg in Morrisania Court. The young woman, who gave her address as No. 5 East 111th Street, was charged with being a burglar.

The police say she confessed to the burglary for which she was arrested last night at Arverne, L. I. The authorities tax her with a new and ingenious method for robbery. It is by making friendships with women at beaches and after becoming chummy, robbing them. In this manner, assert the police, she has committed robberies through acquaintances.

She came to the city on an errand last Thursday and looked in her apartment. She discovered that dressing cases had been ransacked and that a $500 diamond ring and various pieces of clothing and several fur pieces had been stolen. Also a valise had been taken. She notified the police and detectives who went to Arverne said that when they arrested the young woman last night she was wearing some of the stolen clothing. They also found in her possession, they said, the stolen valise.

They said she admitted the burglary and told them she had obtained a loan of $50 on the ring, which has been recovered.

MOTHER WITH BABY IN ARMS GRAPPLES BURGLAR IN HOME

As Man Tried to Break Away She Laid Down Little One and Held On.

Mrs. Ethel Schachter, No. 64 Bush Street, Brooklyn, was lying in bed nursing her baby this morning when she heard a noise in the dining room. She saw a young man opening the drawers of a buffet. With the baby in her arm she got up and faced him, asking: "What are you doing here?" The young man replied that he was looking for a named Greenberg and made for the door. She caught hold of him. The young man attempted to push her aside, but she clung to him as he started down the stairs. In his vestibule she put her baby down and screamed. Patrolman Valentine Alster of the Clymer Street Station heard her and arrested the man.

He gave his name as Charles Costler, aged eighteen, No. 134 Monroe Street, Manhattan. Mrs. Schachter said a purse containing $4 which was in a buffet drawer was missing. The prisoner denied taking it. A search of his pockets revealed the following articles: A gold pocket watch, with initials "G. J.," a ladies' gold wrist watch, two men's gold watches, one with initials "J. E. L.," two fountain pens, one with initials "J. E. L.," a gold pencil with initials "J. E. L.," and a wallet containing $10.10. The prisoner told the police he was minding the articles for friends.

While Costler was being detained the telephone in the station rang and Detective Knowles, who examined the prisoner, was informed by a voice at the other end of the wire that the speaker was Dr. Solomon J. Levine, No. 461 Bedford Avenue, and that his home had been robbed during the night. He and his brother Jacob came to the station, where the brother identified one of the watches, a pen and the pencil as belonging to him.

The police made another search of him and in an inside pocket pocket found a wallet containing a number of business cards, including that of Jacob Levine.

Life in a Great City.

A barrel of asphaltum broke today in front of the paint store of Bode Brothers, No. 84 Bowery, and someone thought to throw a match in the leaky, producing a hot and lively fire which threatened to destroy the wooden part of the elevated railway structure between Heister and Bayard Streets. The blaze was put out by the Fire Department after an hour's fight.

POLICEMAN SHOT BY SUSPECT HE WAS QUESTIONING

POLICE DECLARE ENRIGHT IGNORES HYLAN SEARCH BAN

Tell Dry Grand Jury No Official Orders on Raiding Homes Have Been Issued.

Police officers appearing in cases of alleged violation of the State Liquor Law under consideration by the Brooklyn Grand Jury are alleged to have declared that no official notice has been taken of Mayor Hylan's recent instructions to Police Commissioner Enright to discontinue searching private dwellings without warrants.

The Grand Jury today dismissed sixty of the ninety-three cases presented by District Attorney Marshall Snyder, in many of which search was made without a search warrant. In response to questions, officers concerned declared they had no information of Mayor Hylan's letter to Commissioner Enright except through the newspapers and no orders had been issued on the subject.

One case dismissed was that of Dr. Walter Crawford, who on July 20 took his first aid kit with him when he went to Coney Island for a swim. While ordering a meal at a restaurant, he said, an officer forcibly opened the kit and arrested him when he found a small phial of whiskey which was part of the supplies always carried in the kit.

Alfonse Sterck, in whose case an indictment was returned, said while moving his personal effects from the Whitney Hotel, in which he had sold his interest, he was stopped by an officer who had known him for a long time and ordered to unwrap a bundle he carried under his arm. He declined to do so, he alleged, and was arrested. At the station no charge was preferred, but the bundle was taken from him and found to contain two bottles of brandy. The case was dismissed.

PORTER CAUGHT IN DOOR, THOUSANDS SEE RESCUE.

Man's Screams Attracted Throng When Foot Is Crushed.

Traffic was halted for 20 minutes at Two Street and Broadway when before noon today the morning when thousands crowded to see workmen of the American Telephone and Telegraph Building, No. 119 Broadway, rescue Vincent Parnato, a porter, after his foot became wedged between the floor and the bottom of a huge bronze door on the first floor of the building.

His screaming cries could be heard for a block as workmen lifted the door with crowbars.

Stanford of Mrs. Herbert Hoover Dies.

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Cal., Aug. 20.—Mrs. Charles Henry, mother of Mrs. Herbert Hoover, died at the Hoover home here last night.

HOLD-UP SUSPECT SHOTS POLICEMAN AND GETS AWAY

Patrolman Shine, Who Was Questioning Loiterer, Is Suddenly Attacked.

IS WOUNDED TWICE.

Man Conversing With Assailant Arrested, but Denies Any Evil Intent.

Policeman Daniel D. Shine, a familiar figure to thousands who obeyed his traffic signals at 34th Street and Sixth Avenue for eight years, was shot twice early today while investigating a man whose actions at Jackson Avenue and 40th Street, Corona, had been reported to him as suspicious. Shine, according to the surgeons at Flushing Hospital, will probably recover from his wounds, though he barely escaped instant death. The young policeman had been transferred to Corona some months ago, so that his duty would be nearer his home at No. 89 East Polk Avenue, Corona, where he has a wife and four children.

The man who shot Shine escaped arrest. Shine, desperately wounded, fired a shot after him as he ran and held prisoner a second man, Thomas J. Craven, of No. 85 54th Street, Corona, until help came. Craven, insisting that he did not know Shine's assailant except that he had been accosted by him a few minutes before, was none the less held without bail by Magistrate Doyle in the Flushing Court until stories that he had been hanging about the neighborhood with the other man for an hour or more could be investigated.

John J. Ives, a letter carrier, of No. 79 Jackson Avenue, who, like other responsible persons in the neighborhood, had been asked by Shine to help him in keeping the locality safe by directing his attention at any time to any peculiar circumstances, called up the police booth at Flushing Avenue and 4th Street at about 1 o'clock. Shine answered the signal. Ives told him that he and several others had been watching two men who seemed to have no honest business hanging about the door and windows of Chaffield's Garage, at Jackson Avenue and 4th Street.

DARKENED OUT WITH ENGINE RUNNING.

Shine said the garage was "off his beat," but that he would look the men over.

Starting home Ives encountered an automobile without lights, but with the engine running, pulled up to the curb of Jackson Avenue, a block and a half away. He hurried back to the shop, from which he had telephoned, to call Shine again. As he was waiting for an answer Shine passed in the street going towards Chaffield's.

Ives and one of the men who had been with him started home again with the remark, "Shine will get them if they are not all right." Within a moment three shots from the direction of the garage turned the letter carrier back on the run.

He found Shine arguing with two men who had been passing in an automobile and who wanted to help him to a hospital. Shine insisted he would not go to a hospital until his prisoner was taken.

THROWN OUT AS CARS HIT. THIRD MACHINE KILLS HIM.

Automobile That Runs Over Fallen Man Does Not Stop.

GARDEN, N. J., Aug. 20.—Thomas Dolly, twenty-four, of Moorestown, was killed on the Broadening Road this morning when his motor truck ran into another machine. After he was thrown to the street he was run over by another automobile.

The driver of the machine which ran over him did not stop after the accident. An effort is being made to locate the driver of this machine. It has not yet been determined whether Dolly died from his fall or from being run over.

TO MAKE ULSTER "BARREN AS ROCK OF GIBRALTAR"

One of Dail Eireann Labor Department Wants Boycott Made Drastic.

WOULD END COMMERCE.

"That Will Give North Ireland the Kind of Partition it Doesn't Want."

BELFAST, Ireland, Aug. 20 (Associated Press).—Interviews printed here, attributed to Alderman MacDonagh of Dublin of the Dail Eireann Labor Department, declare the economic pressure against Ulster, designed to bring Northern Ireland peaceably to what the Sinn Fein would regard as a more reasonable attitude, will result in the complete shutting off shortly of the movement of goods from Belfast into Southern Ireland.

"The boycott will grow more rigid every day, and very soon we may look forward to the complete stoppage of all goods out of Belfast and the 'barren area,'" Alderman MacDonagh is quoted as saying. "This will give Belfast a kind of partition it does not want."

"One of its more radical politicians has stated in a speech that Belfast was the Gibraltar of England in Ireland. So long as this attitude is indulged in it will be the duty of all decent Irish people to make Belfast as barren as the rock of Gibraltar."

LONDON, Aug. 20.—Official circles here are of the opinion that the Irish situation has not been materially changed by the speech of Premier Lloyd George. The continuation of negotiations is looked for, but just what form this will take remains as mere conjecture.

There was no evidence of any enthusiasm for the Government scheme in any part of the house. Members listened to the speech more with resignation than with gratification.

The phrase, "explanation, elucidation and elaboration" of details was considered to give free play to efforts toward negotiations to arrive at an agreement. It was also noted that the Premier refrained from emphasizing, as he has always hitherto done, the Government support of Ulster in its irreconcilable attitude. If there was one omission from the speech which it is thought might have appreciably promoted an agreement, it was his failure to answer the Irish question as to whether he accepted and was prepared to adopt all the implications in Premier Smolton's letter, seeing that that letter was put forward officially as the Government's conception of what their scheme meant in practice.

N. Y. MERCHANT IS LOST AT SEA

The Olympic, at Cherbourg, Reports Disappearance of Julius Smolin.

CHERBOURG, Aug. 20.—Julius Smolin, a New York merchant, who was a cabin passenger on the steamer Olympic which sailed from New York Aug. 13, was reported to the authorities on the arrival of the vessel here today as having disappeared Wednesday afternoon. The vessel was searched but no trace of him was found.

Mr. Smolin's son, who was on the same boat, said his father, who was sixty-two years old, suffered frequent attacks of neurasthenia.

Mr. Smolin was in the retail mercenary business at No. 26 E. 24th Street. His trip abroad was for his health. He was accompanied by his son, Nat C. Smolin, and is survived by a widow, son and daughter. The family resided at No. 1899 Seventh Avenue.
